

Why AAAE?

Airports are big business. Development and management of terminal facilities, airfield surfaces and operating systems make most airports multimillion dollar enterprises.

Individuals committed to careers in the diverse disciplines of management required to operate modern airports need a source of current information in an ever-changing industry.

Where can the airport professional turn to meet that need for knowledge, training and support?—To the largest professional organization for airport executives in the world, a constant source of friendly expertise in all airport matters: the American Association of Airport Executives; and to the Northeast Chapter/AAAE regionally.

The Northeast Chapter was the first regional chapter of the national AAAE, established in March of 1958, as a non-profit corporation of the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Chapter sponsors seminars and conferences throughout each year, including the annual conference held in the fall. Members also have access to a number of services: the Chapter newsletter; the Scholarship Program; the ARFF Training Academy; the A.A.E. Mentoring Program, and the International Snow Symposium.
