

Stephanie Taylor is a Safety, Health and Environmental (SHE) Professional and the Digital Services Practice Director at ALL4. Her focus is on working with clients to go beyond regulatory compliance to proactively identify and reduce or eliminate risk via access to high quality data. With more than 25 years of SHE digital experience, she leads a blended team of SHE and IT Professionals focused on client requirements gathering, business analysis, streamlining and harmonization of SHE related work process, digital systems select, system configurations, deployment and post-go live support.

Having served as a Corporate SHE Manager for a global, Fortune 500 Organization, she understands the challenges posed in developing and sustaining industry leading safety programs and cultures and the need for digital solutions to support these efforts and to drive them to a more proactive approach. Stephanie's focus is on delivering systems with a high degree of user adoption. Her experience spans all major verticals including high hazard industries such as refining, chemicals and heavy manufacturing, and transportation such as airlines and passenger rail. She is currently supporting United Airlines and Amtrak their digital transformations.
