

Chief People Officer The New Terminal One

Description: The New Terminal One at John F. Kennedy International Airport is seeking applications for a Chief People Officer (CPO). The CPO is responsible for all talent management activities including recruitment, employee training and development, and implementation of human resources policies. Reporting to the CEO, the CPO will champion company values and a positive workplace culture. The initial priority for the CPO will be recruiting, growing the organization from a small core team of three employees and several consultants today to a fully staffed operation by the end of 2025.

Minimum Requirements: The Chief People Officer will have a four-year degree and considerable experience in recruiting and growing talent, with several years holding a strategic management position, preferably in a complex, creative, and operationally challenging environment. Experience standing up or transforming a human resources department or structure is a plus. Proven ability in identifying, securing, and retaining top talent is critical in this role. Ability to successfully manage change in diverse organizations and ability to develop and build out new talent management practices is key to success.

Salary/Benefits: This position offers market competitive salary with short- and long-term incentive opportunities.

Submission Deadline: September 4, 2022
